GA	*	Left Wing	Trad			5.10	Trend left along horizontals and broken roofs then follow a blunt arete up until it's possible to traverse right along the last major horizontal crack. Continue up and right to the two bolt anchor. Rack to #3 camalot. FRA Ryan Keenan and Garreth Bird.
GA	*	Facial Network	Trad			5.10	Climb up and slightly left along horizontal features and mostly avoiding the roofs above. Move right at the last horizontal feature and head up and right to the anchor. Rack to #3 camalot. FRA Ryan Keenan and Garreth Bird.
GA	*	Coming in Hot	Trad			5.12a	Climb the right face of the large dihedral below a series of roofs. Follow the overhanging crack (crux) into broken roofs and horizontals. Finish up the crack / dihedral system and up and right to the anchor. Rack to #3 camalot, extra small cams (#0.3 - #0.5). FA Garreth Bird and Ryan Keenan (we're fairly certain this one's an FA because we tore a lot of loose rock off it to expose the current crux moves).
GA	*	Unknown Unknowns	Trad			5.11-	Start as for Coming in Hot, then step out onto the arete before the steep crack section. Finish up the arete / face through some small roofs. Rack 0-TCU to #3 camalot. Small fixed knot found halfway up the route on the FRA by Ryan Keenan and Gregory Kay.
GA	*	Define: contrived	Trad			5.11	Start in a steep roof / dihedral thing with a crack. Move up to a blank looking face. Head straight up the face avoiding good holds on the routes to the right and left (a bit contrived :). Carry on straight through the small roof above, again avoiding better holds a couple meters to the left. Fun slabby face to the top. Combine with sections of either of the routes to the right or left for fun variations. Rack 00-TCU to #3 camalot, extra 0-TCU to #0.3 are useful. FRA Ryan Keenan and Garreth Bird.

Area	Route #	Route Name	Type	Bolt	Anchor	Grade	Notes	Mountain Project	Climbio
GA	*	Obvious Weakness	Trad			5.10	This route most certainly has been done before and is the most obvious line on the face. Climb fun cracks and face following the line of least resistance. Rack to #3 camalot, extra 0-TCU to #0.3 are useful. FRA Garrreth Bird and Ryan Keenan.
GA	*	Big Thunder	Trad		Solid	5.11	Start in a dihedral with a hand crack. Step out onto the face at the end of the dihedral. Tricky face moves lead to easier ground above. Head leftish to the same anchor as the previous routes or if feeling spicy linkup with King Lightning. Rack to #3 camalot, extra 0-TCU to #0.3 are useful. FRA Ryan Keenan and Alix Morris.
GA	*	King Lightning	Trad			5.10R	This route is not recommended. There are some cool moves, but a runout crux and loose grovel at the end make it less than pleasant. But if you must, head up the dihedral just right of a sharp arete until just below the roof. Look down at your last gear 3 meters below your feet, then crap your pants as you move out to the arete over loose 5.10 territory. A bolt would be welcome in this section. Work up the arete and on through easy but loose ground to the Filipino / Great Roof anchor. Rack to #4 camalot, extra 0-TCU to #0.5 are useful. FRA Ryan Keenan and Alix Morris.
GA	*	Barrel of Monkeys	Trad			5.10	Climb some fun cracks up to a pebbly roof, turn the roof and head up easier but somewhat loose terrain to the Filipino / Great Roof Anchor. Rack to #3 camalot. FRA Garrreth Bird, Danger Zhang, Matthew Floch, and Ryan Keenan.
GA	315	菲律宾人普羅 - Pure Filippino	Trad			5.11b	Rope anchor with rappel ring added 11/2014
GA	*	O.P.P. (Other Peoples' Pigeons)	Trad			5.11	p1, 5.10: Climb the face / arete to the right of Puro Filipino then move left on the blocky ledge system to belay (also works to continue up and right through the dihedral to the Great Roof p1 anchor). p2, 5.11: Climb the Puro Filipino corner for 10 meters or so, then move out right (just below the Filipino crux, falcons like to leave eviscerated racing pigeons here :) on face features up to a horizontal below a small roof. From here continue more or less straight up on horizontals and face holds through a couple small roofs and top out via a finger crack up high. FRA Garrreth Bird and Ryan Keenan.
